

Snivelus Grime

Dragons! Haha. No I've never believed in such fantasy. Until now. It was so tall. VERY TALL. As tall as three men. It was also very bright. Covered entirely in GLOWING LIZARD-LIKE SCALES.

It had a tail. Oh yes indeed. A long tail that appeared to move of its own will with a long spike on the very end.

Something about its body SHONE... glistened in the light of the moon. It moved with an elegance. With authority.

I'm fairly certain I saw WINGS. Short and useless-looking wings but wings none the less.

Its back was FULL OF SPIKES. I'm sure it was the most hideous thing I had ever seen. It just looked at me. I was too scared to move.

Its eyes were small but bright. BRIGHT ORANGE EYES. Like fire.

I do remember it had horns all over its head. It also snorted a lot. It must have had HUGE NOSTRILS!

In a heartbeat it turned and fled down the passageway. Hovering just about the path. Maybe those wings did work! A faint glow accompanying it as it swaggered and disappeared from view.
